DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 18-19 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Fagan, GB 2229333.

In considering claims 18-19,

Fagan discloses a fast acting automatic gain control device which includes both a coarse gain control (14) and a fine gain control (17), where the gain values are products of both the coarse gain and fine gain control value wherein processor 15 updates/adjusts the value based upon the estimated levels of the coarse gain (via level est 18), the fine gain (via level est 18') a squarer 19 and the desired output level (being the preselected nominal value) as shown in Fig 1.

Fagan does not explicitly disclose adjusting at the frame rate. Fagan broadly discloses that the sample frequency is CLK1 which may be derived from the incoming signal and that rest of the device repeats at this frequency or a submultiple thereof (CLK2) (see page 9, lines 1-8).

Thus since a received signal has a frame/field rate attributed to it, in addition to line rates. The use of the frame or line rates is purely an option (no unexpected results from either use), where obviously line rates are updated quicker (since they occur more frequently than a frame/field), therefore it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to utilize the frame or line rate in order to update the received signal based upon the frequency of the incoming signal.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1-17 appear allowable over the art of record.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure—see newly cited references on attached form PTO-892.

publication submissions in electronic publication-ready form. EFS includes software to help customers prepare submissions in extensible Markup Language (XML) format and to assemble the various parts of the application as an electronic submission package. EFS also allows the submission of Computer Readable Format (CRF) sequence listings for pending biotechnology patent applications, which were filed in paper form.
